

Exceedingly Valuable
Psalm 139:1-10 & 13-16

The Bible is filled with messages of God's endless, _____ love for and devotion to each of us. Psalm 139 describes the exceeding value God places on ____, on _____.

This Psalm was written by King David, but it isn't just a statement about God's devotion to ____ _____. It was intended to be sung by everyone in the _____.

The psalm begins by declaring God's intimate knowledge of us. He knows you better than ____ _____. The psalm is a song of praise about how God cares so much about you that He wants to know _____.

The Psalm was written for us to understand that God has taken time to know everything about you because He wants to know how to _____ you _____. He knows both the good and the bad. It doesn't stop Him from placing an enormously high _____ on us and loving us _____.

Furthermore, the Psalm says that God _____ you, front and back, with His presence. He never _____ your side. God values you and me so much that He promises His constant presence in the _____ and the _____; in the _____ and in the _____.

All this leads to an inevitable question: Why would God place such a _____ on me? Why would the God who created and holds together the vastness of the _____ care about me?

David's answer: Because He _____ you before anyone knew you existed—in your mother's womb. More than that, all your days have been _____ by God. If I could paraphrase, God values you because He _____ you and has a _____ for you.

God created you on purpose and for a purpose—to be salt to a decaying world and light to a dark world—to be a _____ of _____. Don't let His purpose go to _____. And never underestimate just how exceedingly _____ you are to your Heavenly Father.
